JOHNNY WONDER

Q. "WHAT MAKES GEYSERS?"

DIANE STACKHOUSE, OF YORK, PA., WINS A PRIZE FOR THIS QUESTION.

A. Geysers are steam explosions. A geyser occurs where water seeps into a crooked column in the earth and is heated by hot underground rock. The water at the bottom boils first, and the pressure of the water in the column prevents the water closer to the surface from boiling until the temperature is far above water's usual boiling point. Suddenly the superheated water explodes into steam, shooting into the air. After the eruption, water begins to refill the geyser hole and the temperature begins to increase, in advance of the next steam eruption.

You can win a World Almanac if your question is selected. Send your name and age to JOHNNY WONDER, c/o THE NEWSPAPER, P.O. Box 1280, Santa Cruz, CA 95061.
